

RODRICK MILLER NAMED VISITING FELLOW AT HARVARD KENNEDY

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

October 20

CAMBRIDGE Rodrick Miller,

Local Government. He began his appointment in September 2022.

As visiting fellow, Miller will share lessons about economic development learned during his decades of experience boutique economic development firm focused on providing bold growth solutions to help economies sustain themselves, gain jobs, and spur private investment, Miller has led diverse economic initiatives for clients including Living Cities, the Kellogg Foundation, The Fund for our Economic Future, and the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies.

Miller holds a master of public policy degree from the Harvard Kennedy School of Government and a bachelor of science degree in international business. He also gained a graduate diploma in finance from the Monterrey Institute of Technology in Mexico as a Fulbright Fellow. He is a board member of the New Growth Innovation Network, the Harvard

The Taubman Center and its affiliates house several research fellows each year, typically academics and experienced practitioners who take a sabbatical to study, write about, and help spread insights and ideas on a variety of subjects. During their time at the Harvard Kennedy School, they engage with other scholars and practitioners, faculty members, staff, and students.

About the Taubman Center for State and Local Government

The Taubman Center for State and Local Government and its affiliated institutes and programs are the Harvard Kennedy School of Government's focal points for activities that address state